

Compliance 360 Appoints New Vice President of Professional Services

Atlanta, GA. – August 10, 2007 – Compliance 360, Inc., a provider of governance, risk and compliance (GRC) management software, today announced that it has appointed Natalie Cheney as Vice President of Professional Services. Ms. Cheney will be responsible for leading Compliance 360's experienced team of consultants and partners to launch new, expanded service offerings in the areas of risk based consulting, industry best practices, and education services.

Ms. Cheney is a seasoned technology services veteran that specializes in leading change and installing operational excellence in high-growth companies. Prior to joining Compliance 360, Ms. Cheney was Vice President of Professional Services at Constructware (since acquired by Autodesk, Inc.) where she successfully developed and enhanced the training and implementation methodology, globally introduced two new product lines, and facilitated the Professional Services Division in reaching their corporate revenue goals.

"As validated by a third party research firm, Compliance 360 has the highest customer satisfaction of any company in its peer group. Based on Natalie's experience and leadership, I am highly confident that Compliance 360 will continue its superior position" says Steve McGraw, Compliance 360 president and chief executive officer. "Natalie has extensive leadership in professional services and we are very pleased to have her as part of our management team."

"Compliance 360 is well recognized as the leading vendor addressing every facet of governance, risk and compliance management across the entire enterprise" says Cheney. "I am excited about working with a high growth company with such a fine reputation as Compliance 360."
